The Period of their Adolescence was about 30 years ago, when Romance was still alive and Knighthood was in Flower around every Dancing Academy West of Pittsburgh. The two Chums had made a Pact

They were to be Friends forever and ever and over and neither was to hold out anything from the other. Each carried in a Locket a Four-

Leaf Clover presented by One to whom she had bared her Soul. After supplementing the Graded Schools with a full course of Mrs. Southworth and learning to play "The Maiden's Prayer" on the Melodeon, naught remained for them in the way of passionate Diversion except to go ahead and get Married.

They walted three years for the Fairy Prince of their Dreams to come clattering down Main Street in his Couch all White and Gold, and then began to mistrust the Schedule. So they effected the usual Compromise, felling gracefully into the awkward Embraces, of two cornfed Lizards named Otis and Wilbur.

In the Shake-off it befell that Angle got Wilbur and Lib drew Otls. The two Brides were somewhat envied, as Wilbur was a Good-Looker with raveh Portradour and large snappy Eyes, while Otis was supposed to possess the Faculty of copping the Mazume. However, the purpose of this Fable is to indicate that each Gal found out

. Having arrived at this cordial Un-derstanding, each leaned against the other and had a Good Cry, after which they chirked up and paid a lot of at-tention to a well-preserved Bachelor who dropped in to get warm and take a slight Fall out of the Side-Board. MORAL: When Wealth walks in at the Door, the Press Agent comes in through the Window. One Hundred Years Ago.

One hundred years ago Andrew Jackson, the future president, was appointed a major general in the United States army, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William Henry Harrison. The appointment was in recognition of General Jackson's distinguished services in the war with the Creek Indiane. The Legislature of Mississippi turritory voted him a sword, and numerous other honors were bestowed upon him. Jacksor, immediately upon his appointment as major general, was assigned to the command of the Army of the South and in July he assumed command at Fort Jackson, on the Mississippi river, about 65 miles below New Orleans. Here he met the chiefs of the Creek Indians, and after much diplomacy negotiated terms of peace known as the treaty of Fort Jackson
